

The Preserve

The Preserve is more than just a new home community, it resembles more of a town. The architecture the custom builders use to construct the homes in The Preserve is quite different than many of the production homes on the market in Birmingham today. The new homes feature many details that the production home builders seem to leave out.